Elephantastic II – Elephantastic Adventures Treasure Hunt in Africa

Michael Engler/Joëlle Turlonias

32 full colour pages, 21,5 x 27,5 cm

Publication date: January 2015

☀ All rights available

It's raining outside and the atmosphere in the playroom is dull as ditchwater! Luckily Anton and the talking elephant Timbo find a treasure map under the bed. Timbo immediately understands where the treasure is hidden: Africa! So off, they go, over mountains, across the sea, through the desert and the jungle. Another elephantastic adventure for Anton, Timbo and Luise, the girl next door!

- The second volume of the successful duo Engler & Turlonias
- Modern and warmhearted illustrations of a much asked for young illustrator

Praise for Elephantastic I:

"Friendship and sharing are the core lessons to be found in ELEPHANTASTIC! However, it's told in such a disarming fashion that younger readers may not even realize they're learning something. Eloquent storytelling and brimming with charm, ELEPHANTASTIC! earns a hearty recommendation for readers aged 4 thru 8 (and a few in their upper forties as well)." – CriticalBlast

"Elephantastic! expertly communicates through the artwork the overlay of the imaginary over the reality." – CriticalBlast

"A sweet celebration of the imagination." – Kirkus Reviews

The Sea has No Borders

Udo Weigelt/Maria Bogade
32 full colour pages, 21,5 x 27,5 cm
Publication date: January 2015
☀ All rights available

Anna has recently moved to live by the sea with her family. Although she can swim, she refuses to go in the water with the other children. She would much rather build sand castles and keeps a safe distance from the water. However, one day while Anna is admiring her latest masterpiece, deep in thought, a wave washes around her feet. At first she's frightened, but then she notices that the water hasn't hurt her after all.

- A sensitively told story about the fear of the unknown
- The sea as an atmospheric setting

Udo Weigelt's books have been translated into more than 15 languages. Since 2003, he has worked as an independent author.

Maria Bogade is a freelance illustrator. After completing her studies, her career began in picture book illustration and in the animation film business. Her love for paintbrush, pencil and paper slowly cast its spell, and she now devotes full-time to her illustration work. Her illustrations also adorn games, chocolate bars and greetings cards.

Young George Gershwin has reached his destination: Paris! The lively city immediately fills him with wonder and fascination. A street café, to stroll around Montmartre and along the Seine, the company of a lovely young lady; this is the life! However, at Pont Neuf a small dog causes a commotion and George must continue on his own. Now he finally wants to see the most famous sight of all: The Eiffel Tower. After an exhausting climb the young composer is rewarded with a magnificent view over Paris, which is truly unbelievable! George could not keep these memories to himself, you can find them in his music: An American in Paris is a homage to the French capital in the 20s.

- George Gershwin's An American in Paris retold for children for the very first time

A Star for Class 3A

Elfriede Wimmer/Sabine Kranz

112 pages, 14,5 x 20,5 cm

Publication date: 2nd edition: January 2015

☀ All rights available

Class 3a has a reputation as an extremely difficult class. Max is Boss, and with his followers, he controls the group. Julian tries to get through school with the "Invisible Tactic." And Amelie wishes for nothing more than a friend, but she is not cool enough for the hip girls. One day everything changes – when Star, a new teacher, enters the classroom. The kids begin to listen to each other, talk with one another, and work toward a common goal: to perform a rock music show at the end of the school year. Not only the disruptive class culture changes in the process...but more.

- A story on the subject of nonviolent communication based on Marshall Rosenberg and the handling of conflicts and quarrels at school.
- A Star for Class 3a is a book that exposes and evaluates typical school situations in varied ways. The author obviously understands the processes, challenges, tensions, relations as well as the problems that can occur in a classroom environment.

What tastes better: fish or meat? Where can you live more comfortably: in a cave or in a hut by the river? These are crucial questions that the family of the Fox-Hairs and the tribe of the Broad-Noses have to ask themselves as they meet at the end of the Neolithic Age – about 10.000 years ago. The red haired Mena and the black haired Nenek, both about 10 summers old, show the adults how to overcome prejudices and learn from one another. Their curiosity for each other is soon stronger than their mistrust.
